

Tuesday, 11 January 2011

Hold Me

I think you will agree with me when I say the worst part of any trip is the packing, and makeup is no exception. So when I was given the chance to review a new makeup bag that promises to make the whole process a little easier I was very happy to try it out!

The design of the Hold Me case is fantastic as it incorporates features of a toiletries organiser, makeup bag and brush roll all in one. The exterior of the bag is made of a tough, black, suede-like fabric, which looks stylish and classic against the white stitching. I also like the fact that there are no tricky clasps, velcro or flimsy magnetic closures, but a simple self-tie, which means the bag can expand to fit more, or be tied tighter to take up minimal luggage space.

This is the Miss Suki bag, which features a fun, colourful cartoon design. The fabric is easy to clean as it is over-laid with plastic, so high altitude explosions of foundation can be quickly wiped away without fear of damaging the bag ;). I used this bag on my recent ski trip, and it worked perfectly as everything was in one place, on display and easily accessible. It also saves time unpacking once you have reached your destination and doesn't take up counter space. For once the bf had no right to complain about me monopolising the bathroom with all my little 'potions' ;).

So what did I bring with me? Below is my fail safe travel kit:

- NARS Sheer Glow Foundation
- Bobbi Brown Corrector
- NARS Laguna Bronzer
- ELF Pink Mineral Blush
- MAC Mineralize Skinfinish Natural
- NARS Madrague Eyeshadow Duo (for brows)
- L'Oreal Carbon Gloss liner
- ELF All Over Colour Stick in Persimmon
- L'ancome Hypnose Mascara
- Clear Mascara
- MAC Dazzleglass
- YSL Tuxedo Lipstick
- MAC Smokey Eyes palette
- ELF Quad - MAC e/s vapour, wedge, scene and knight devine
- Made from Earth Vanilla Lipbalm
- MAC Cremecup lipstick

<http://filthygorgeousmakeup.blogspot.com/2011/01/hold-me.html>